VOLUME TWENTY-SIX

Edited by the Student Body of the State Teachers College
Farmville, Virginia

MR. THOMAS A. McCORKLE

DEDICATION

O Mr. Thomas A. McCorkle, whom we love as a friend, respect as a professor, and admire as a gentleman, we dedicate this volume of The Virginian.

The torch of mem'ry burns
Aeon after aeon ;
But oftentimes flickers, and we then forget.
Within this volume
We have left a sparkle
To touch and light again
 our past.

To a Certain Village Pierrot

I send my heart a-soaring far on wings
In wistful search of Love's forgotten tune,
When Pierrot beneath my window sings—
And sighs, bewitched by a full-blown moon.
No wonder that the stars half envy me,
And roses drink as though the song were rain,
So sweet a young lad's serenade may be.
And yet, ah yet, I long for an unheard strain!
Tomorrow night, if Pierrot stops by
To lift his loving voice, I'll bid my heart
Fold close her wings, quench her desire to fly,
Contented with the reach of rustic art.
He's but a lad yet; Pierrot is young;
Then wherefore should I sigh for a love unsung?

COLLEGE

Alma Mater

All hail, Alma Mater! Dear Mother, to thee,
Thy daughters true, faithful, and loyal will be;
Thy gentle instruction, thy influence so sweet,
Will go with them always—a guide to their feet.
Thy loving protection, thy nurturing care,
Will lead them to cherish things lovely and fair;
All hail, Alma Mater! Dear Mother, to thee,
Thy daughters true, faithful, and loyal will be.

Thy halls and arcades with their calm, classic air,
Thy campus with blossoms perennially fair,
Thy trees and thy fountains, thy vine-covered walls,
Will live in their memory, whatever befalls.
Though far from thy care and protection they roam,
They still hold thee dear, as a well-beloved home.
All hail, Alma Mater! Dear Mother, to thee,
Thy daughters true, faithful, and loyal will be.

Thither

Lay a path of silver over water to the moon;
Wing me with cobwebs and fire-fly shoon.

Gleaming lies the yonder land, ravishing
my gaze,
Where scenery is silhouette and light is haze—

No hint of any coloring save where the waters reach
In an opalescent curve along the beach.

No sound, of even music, save where the waters pour
Their murmurs in the pearl ears of the sea shells on the shore.

How my golden shoon will twinkle on the silver sand,
While I race beside you, holding to your unseen hand!

Determined, undetermined-stolid, mobile,
Milestones have passed—forgotten, lost,
Incited by intenser, overpowering charge.
Attempted enterprises loom and awe
Plex us—seeming anxieties.
Another milestone—
Prepared, enriched, ennobled by the past,
Rest we on our merits scarce a day,
But traverse to a higher summons—LIFE.

Architect of Destiny
Accelerate Success.

Neighborhood Gossip

The Spring has stolen Robin's suit.
You see, she is garbed in green;
And you should hear the birds protest
About this robber queen.
"Spring tries to fool the world," they cry,
"To think she's seventeen;
We know she's passed a million times,
And still she dons her green."

"The Lasting Boon"

Full well I know that Time shall blot all things
Away, and even Time itself shall end;
Dear friends, eternal love, and all Life brings,
Into a final, perfect whole shall blend.

The mighty unseen Hand of God shall roll
Each thought, each dream of man, so poor and frail,
Into the dark; He shall exact a toll
For each, to lay before the Holy Grail.

But He, so wise in all man's thoughts and life,
Shall look on man, and smile, and knowing his heart,
His longing soul that gropes amid the strife,
Shall never suffer Beauty to depart.

From Him a flow of liquid words shall stream—
"A memory is sweeter than a dream."

Reading the Idylls by Firelight

Howl, mournful wind, I scorn your weeping.
Beat, sleet, against the iced window pane.
You make me more adore old Hector sleeping
Here by the fire. I like your drab refrain.
Sir Galahad rides by in flaming splendor.
Off up the flue he gallops in armor bright—
Sparks from his charger's hoofs fly at the fender
Behind him good Sir Percivale—gallant knight!
Can wailing winds and rattling shutters sadden
My hearth of dreams, realm where I rule, a queen?
Nay, storms without and storms within but gladden
The heart with pictures on a firelit screen!

—ALICE STRINGFELLOW.

ACTIVITIES

Gifts

A scarf illusive in its fold on fold
Of cloud-like blue, deep blue of twilight skies,
Remembrance of the blue of her dear eyes;
A string of amber beads, like crystal gold
Of oriental beauty yet untold;
Deep violets with palest yellow ties
Of ribbon; splendor which belies
That she is really not a queen of old.

A band of brilliants wound in her dusky hair,
Which seems to make a halo reflected there.
Ah, lovely lady, all these gifts to thee
Can tell not half, nay not the hundredth part
Of all that you have ever meant to me—
Of all the love that pulses through my heart.

—AYLWIN HUCHSON.

The Honor System

To live our life at its best, to grow into wider freedom, to make and to accept the pervasive college spirit, to leave Farmville a little stronger than we found it—for this the Honor System came into being and for this the Student Government Association exists.

THE COMMON PROBLEM

*"The common problem, yours, mine, everyone's,
Is not to fancy what were fair in life,
Provided it could be—but finding first
What maybe, find how to make it fair
Up to our means."*

—ROBERT BROWNING

Believing that the advanced students can be a constructive force in the development of a great Virginia, and seeking a medium through which they may participate in effecting such an advancement, we have organized the Virginia Club, which we dedicate to the best possible service of the state, whose citizens we are.

Code of Ethics of the Pan-Hellenic Association

This association desires to go on record as believing that membership in the association obligates every sorority on its roll and every initiate thereof:

To co-operate with college authorities.

To respect and obey the letter and the spirit of any agreement made by the college and the association.

To refrain from the discussion of sorority disagreements.

To refrain from the speaking disparagingly of any sorority or non-sorority girl.

To regulate personal conduct so that it shall at all times conform in spirit and appearance with the accepted standards of good breeding.

To conduct all rushing as inconspicuously as possible and to make the lines of demarcation between sorority and non-sorority girls as slight as possible.

To remember that of those to whom much is given, much is required.

To remember that sorority badge is not a mark of superiority, but a pledge to high endeavor.

To remember that the unity of sororities in the teacher's field means mutual improvement and protection, and to maintain the high standards for which the teachers must strive.

To remember that a girl who smokes, drinks, or who breaks college rules is not conforming to the letter or to the spirit of Pan-Hellenic standards.

This season is a landmark in the athletic history of our college, for during its weeks a new sport has been introduced. Though hockey was a novel game to the majority, it has gained great popularity, and the season may be proclaimed a success. Since it was not considered advisable to engage in inter-collegiate combat in so new a sport, an honorary Varsity was selected, which represents the pick of the four class teams. We are expecting great things of this team next year.

The Senior team of 1926-27 has the honor, not only of holding the basketball championship, but also of being the first Senior Class team in the history of the college to win this distinction. The Seniors have every right to feel proud of their honor, for they have worked under great difficulty: one member of the team made her first entry on the basketball floor in the Junior-Senior game; the forwards were formerly guards; and one of the guards formerly played side-center. Through the splendid leadership of their captain and by the hearty co-operation of not only the team but also the entire squad, the Seniors were able to work up this worthwhile team. They worked hard, and labor brought its own reward—victory.

VANITY FAIR

Vanity Fair

If you had Aladdin's lamp,
No finer wonders could you see
Than these young and gifted maidens
Of our college—S. T. C.
No black geni of Arabia
Ever found such splendid girls
As revealed within these pages
Better far than precious pearls.
And I know that Ala Baba
Would have left that secret door
And departed with these jewels
To return—ah, never more!
So, we feel that we are honored,
Turn the page—'tis not a dream—
These are girls of S. T. C.
Pictured here upon the screen.

"Yes, We Are Collegiate"

1897

That "April showers bring May flowers" has long been an acknowledged fact, but, in 1897, April showers, no matter how refreshing, brought forth no flowers in the form of pretty girls. The pretty girl thought too much of her lovely ringlets, carefully rolled up the night before on paper curlers. She thought too much of her dainty dress, which must never be allowed to drag in the mud. Her little slippers, size number two and a half, must never have a tiny spot of mud marring their charming daintiness.

Just such a pretty girl was Patricia—known to her friends as Patsy—as she peeped forlornly out between the drawn curtains of her room in the college dormitory. The campus was dotted with tiny oceans and lakes, and what had once been a road was now a mass of red mud churned up by the carriage wheels.

Oh, how Patsy longed to go out and down town for a soda or dish of ice cream—but never, never, could she think of going out on such a day. The other members of the small college were seemingly content with such rainy-day tasks as darning last week's washing or catching up on back notebooks.

Finally, she could stand it no longer. One of those sodas she absolutely must have, or die in the attempt. Suddenly, to her astounded roommate, she declared her intention of going down town. Nancy was shocked almost beyond words. Go down town on such an afternoon, and with a soda as the only excuse! Absurd! Impossible!

Patsy, however, was firm and content in her new formed resolution. She had just discovered another reason for her adventure, but never would she have breathed it to Nancy, the unimaginative. She had just been overcome with the desire to feel the rain in her face, to be a part of Nature, to come to life with returning Spring!

Wrapping a long cloak over her neat shirtwaist and skirt, and tying her hat firmly under her chin, Patsy hardily began her mission of adventure. She was just raising a huge umbrella over her head amid urgent pleas from timid souls, and cries of encouragement from bolder ones, when the dean appeared. She saw Patsy, and instantly swooped upon her, taking the umbrella from her nerveless hand.

"My child, my child!" she cried, "Come in immediately. Don't you know that you will die with cold?"

Patricia, "Junior," known to everyone as "Pat," as soon as he had known her five minutes, was standing at the window of her room in a college once small, but now very large indeed. She had just decided to go down town. It was such fun to go out on a rainy day. Especially when she had a new "slicker" to wear, and a permanent wave in her hair which would curl more with every drop of rain. Besides, everyone would be sure to be down town! (Everyone, in her case, meaning "the one and only.")

"Come on, Nan," said Pat. "I take to rain just like a duck to water, and so does my 'permanent'!"

Five minutes later Nan and Pat were clad in brilliant-colored slickers, little felt hats pulled down over their closely cropped heads, and flapping, black galoshes on their feet. Looking "collegiate," but anything else but dainty, they fared forth for a "dope" and a "hot dog" at their favorite soda fountain. The wet sidewalks were dotted here and there with groups of girls in bright slickers, looking almost like bright bunches of May flowers, as they lifted gay faces to the cooling rain.

"Oh, Nan!" exclaimed Pat. "Don't you just love it? I just can't imagine why in the world Mother and all the girls liked to stay in school on a lovely rainy day like this!"

"Especially when 'everyone' is down town!" laughed Nan, as she dodged a playful kick from Pat's foot clad in a far from dainty black galosh.

JOKES

"V" Vincent wants to know: if George Washington were such an honest man, why did they get the habit of closing the banks on his birthday?

Miss Lewis: "Do you know Poe's Raven?"

Red Foster: "No! What's he mad about?"

Edith Lamphier: "I am sorry I couldn't get to your wedding, Mebane."

Mebane Hunt: "Dear me! Weren't you there?"

Edith: "Why, of course I was! How stupid of me to have forgot!"

Annie Gris McIntosh: "That train smokes a lot."

Phillis Wood: "Yes, and choos, too."

Runt Hargrave: "Can you breathe through your nose?"

Bessie Meade Riddle: "Yes!"

Runt: "Then keep your mouth shut."

THE PARENTAL WAIL

"We send them off to school to learn
To dot their i's and cross their t's,
But once away they only yearn
To roll their eyes and cross their knees."

Virginia Jordan says her idea of a kind-hearted man is the one who orders a ton of soft coal when the cat insists on sleeping in the coal bin.

Dot Myers: "He says he thinks I'm the nicest girl in town. Shall I ask him to call?"

Ann Palmer: "No, dear, let him keep on thinking so."

The Virginian

Miss Grenels: "And so we find that heat expands things, and cold contracts them. Can anyone give me an example of this?"

Sis Jordan: "Yes, ma'am. The days are longer in summer."

Skinny Watkins is so modest she will not look at a battleship stripped for action.

Louise McCormick wants to know if the Four Horsemen were the first ones to wear the Kentucky Derby.

Virginia Potts says wild flowers got that way from trying to learn their botanical names.

Anna Burgess thinks it's economical to buy thermometers in the winter time because they're lower.

Lucy Haile's latest is about the artist who painted a rabbit on a bald man's head so natural that you couldn't tell it from a hare.

Paul Revere: "The British are coming!"

Colonist: "What, for breakfast?"

Lucy Marsteller can't see why they call it the Freedom of the Press when every tailor charges at least fifty cents.

Virginia Updyke says falling hair may be avoided if one jumps quickly aside.

Oh, no, "Red," children can't get into the infantry.

Executioner: "So long, old man."

Condemned: "Not yet. I'll hang around for a few minutes anyway."

Miss Sutherlin: "Have you recited To a Grecian Urn?"

Lucy Haile Overby: "No, but I just know he wouldn't understand."

Virginia Boxley: "I'm a power in this country. I can ride anywhere on my face."

Skinny Craft: "Kinda looks like you've been doing it."

"I do wish hens would lay something besides eggs!" sighed Peg Fowler, as she gave the breakfast table the once over.

Sara Cross says she's heard that to the victor belong the spoils, but she thinks he might have it fresh, after he's worked so hard to get it.

Jeannette Morris: "Why don't you answer me?"

Bibby Ball: "I did shake my head."

Jeannette: "Well, do you expect me to hear it rattle way up here?"
